

Plant something
for us this year!

NATIVE PLANT plant sale!

Native birds, butterflies, and other wildlife are often dependent on plants native to our soils and climate.

At the same time, native plants generally require less fertilizer and are more drought-tolerant and pest-resistant than exotic ornamentals.

Saturday, April 18

9:00am-1:00pm

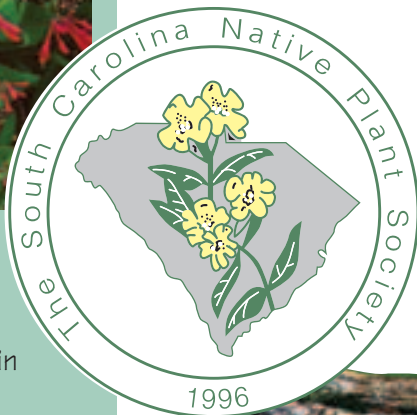

Where? In the parking lot of Jeff Lynch Appliances at 17 Roper Mtn Rd, Greenville, 29607. That's the intersection of Roper Mtn Rd, Verdae Blvd & Woodruff Rd (the site of the old Lowe's).

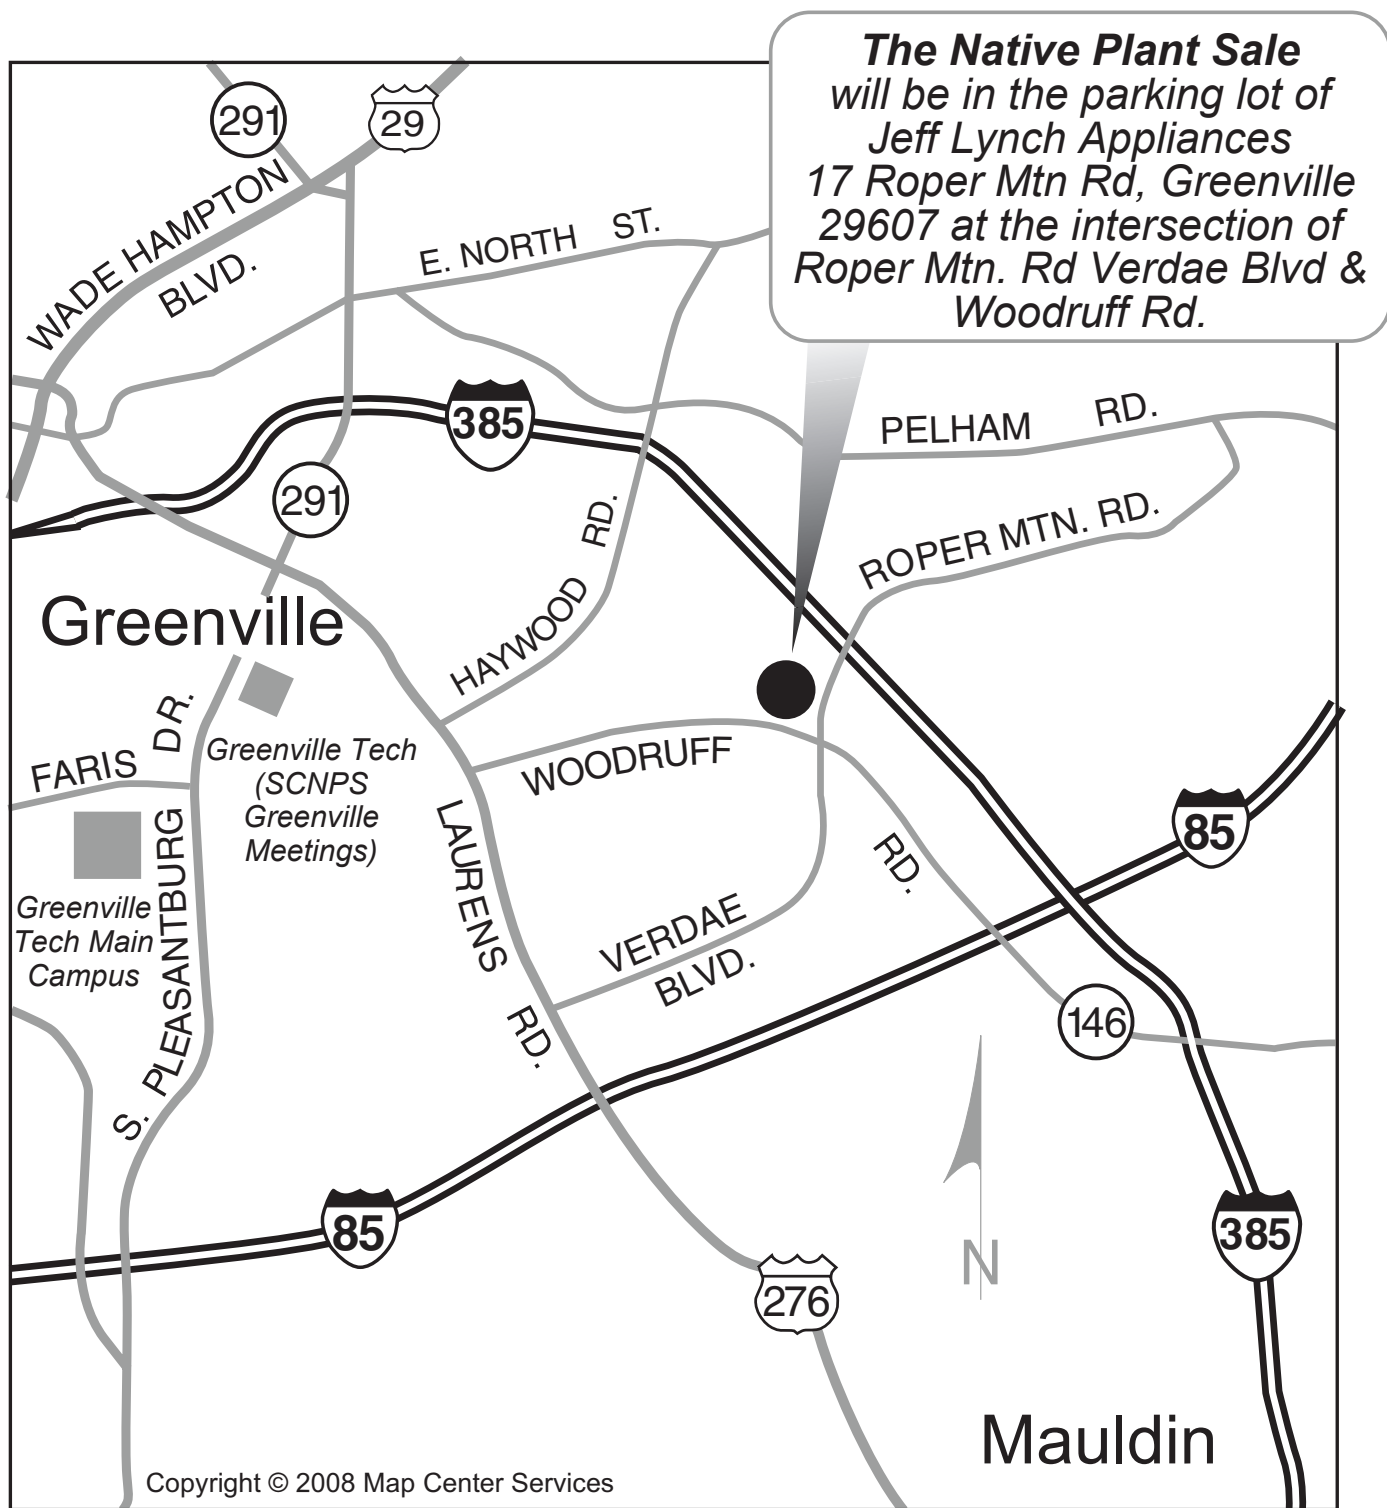

For more information, call 864-288-5590 or visit www.scnps.org

Greenville

The SC Native Plant Society is a non-profit organization committed to the preservation and protection of native plant communities in South Carolina.

Also, at the plant sale, Dr. Jan Haldeman of Erskine College will display examples of — and provide information about — commonly sold non-native species that have become invasive in our climate.
